Stewards of One Another

Do you recall Charles Dicken's story of Oliver Twist? The touching scene where Oliver, who is being housed with countless other unfortunate boys at an orphanage/workhouse, dares to ask for more food? His "Please sir, I want some more" evokes our sympathy for his plight. When his request is met by explosive anger, our sympathy grows even deeper for someone so poor, being abused by someone so uncaring. Surely we are frustrated by the fact that Oliver's experience continues to be lived out today, and that there is not one place in this vast world of ours that someone is not asking, "Please, I want some more."

Oliver's request is echoed in the growling stomachs of the hungry and in the cries of the poor whose needs go unrecognized, unanswered or under-served. Too often, the rich — and even the not-so-rich — are too attentive to their possessions to hear, to care and to act. Therefore, it is good for us to hear living words that ask of us, "Will you be stewards of your own wealth, or stewards of one another?"

The prophet Amos urged his people, "Steward your poor among you. More precious than the shekel and silver are the needy of the land." These are the ones that deserve to benefit from the investment of our time, talent and treasure.

Connected to my parish in Saginaw was the "white house." It was painted in white. To it we welcomed many lesser fortunate: The young widowed mother with six little children—nowhere to stay, nothing to eat and little to wear. The group of migrants; the family whose house burned to the ground; the victims of domestic violence; the family whose father became unemployed, and so many more. The "white house" accommodated all these folks quite well — it could house eight persons. It was a wonderful ministry at the parish.

I think back — when I lived in Garfield Heights, on Vernon Avenue, off Turney Road — four houses from Garfield Park. Over the years our house became a "designated stop" where the poor and hungry would stop by for something to eat. Mom and Dad were very insistent that we always treat the poor and hungry with due respect. So, we had the opportunity to answer the sidedoor bell and instruct the beggar to wait. We would make a real nice lunch — sandwich with ample lunchmeat and trimmings, fruit, cookies/candy, and beverage. It was a great feeling to reach out to others. It sure recalls the words of St. Francis: "it is in giving that we receive."

One of the wonderful things that we did in Michigan was to respond to the appeal of the representative of the Christian Foundation for Children and Aging. After a presentation at each of the four weekend Masses, parishioners were invited to "adopt" a youngster and/or an older person from Latin America and support the individual with a monthly subsidy of thirty dollars administered to them by CFCA. I "adopted" a six-year-old girl, Carmen, ten years ago. Happy to say she is doing very well — in school and at her parish church. That particular weekend our parishioners "adopted" almost two hundred youngsters and elderly. It is a nice feeling to receive a letter from Carmen. If you are interested in this program, write to: CFCA, One Elmwood Avenue, Kansas City, KS 66103. I hope that today's gospel encourages and challenges us to respond favorably to the lesser fortunate.

„Bądźmy świadkami Miłości”

Przypowieści dzisiejsze pokazują naturę przebaczącej miłości Bożej. Jej zasadniczą cechą jest przede wszystkim inicjatywa szukania i przebaczenia.

Przesłanie dzisiejszej Ewangelii tylko z pozoru jest proste: pasterz szuka zagubionej owcy, kobieta wielkim wysiłkiem znajduje utraconą drachmę a ojciec przebacza marnotrawnemu synowi. Owca, drachma i powracający syn, to symbole nawróconych grzeszników.

Każdy, kto chociaż raz usłyszał lub przeczytał Jezusową przypowieść o synu marnotrawnym, zapamięta ją na całe życie. Nawet jeśli ktoś słucha tej przypowieści po raz setny, to za każdym razem ma wrażenie jakby słyszał ją po raz pierwszy: Pewien człowiek miał dwóch synów... Ta piękna przypowieść odbiła się szerokim echem na całym świecie i w ludzkich sercach, w wiernych i niewiernych ludzkich sercach. Czy pośród nas są tacy ojcowie? Czy to możliwe, żeby ojciec nie wyrzekł się swojego syna, który go opuszcza, trwoni jego majątek i prowadzi rozwiązłe życie? Czy to w ogóle możliwe, żeby ojciec komuś takiemu z serca przebaczył i codziennie cierpliwie na niego czekał? Czy to nie przesada, że gdy tamten po tylu latach łaskawie wraca, gdy pojawia się wreszcie na horyzoncie, to ojciec nie tylko wzrusza się do głębi, lecz jeszcze do tego wybiega mu naprzeciw, rzuca mu się na szyję i całuje go? Czy któryś z naszych ojców zdobyłby się na coś takiego?

Zdumiewające jest to miłosierdzie Ojca względem syna. W naszym ludzkim odczuciu pewnie byśmy tak nie postąpili. Może postąpilibyśmy jak starszy syn: oburzeni na pozorną niesprawiedliwość ojca. Oburzenie starszego syna na zachowanie Ojca przebaczącego wybrki młodszemu synowi, może było słuszne, ale nigdy nie może być usprawiedliwione. Ojciec, który dał synowi życie, nie chciał tego życia w nim zgasić. Dlatego dostrzegając w nim iskierkę dobrej woli, postanowił ją rozdmuchać w wielki płomień miłości. Wracającego przyjął do swojej wspólnoty oświadczając z radością, że „trzeba się weselić i cieszyć z tego, że ten brat twój był umarły i znów ożył, zaginął a odnalazł się” (Łk 15,32).

Bóg w dzisiejszym słowie do nas kierowanym nawiązuje do bliskiej nam sytuacji poszukiwania. Szukać można zagubionych kluczy lub dokumentów, ale szukać też można drogi życia i drugiego człowieka. Różne są poszukiwania w naszym życiu te małe, prozaiczne i te wielkie. Nie tylko człowiek zajęty jest szukaniem, Bóg także szuka, ale nie bogactw czy rzeczy materialnych, bo On przecież wszystko posiada. Bóg szuka miłości, Bóg szuka człowieka, którego z miłości stworzył i kocha do szaleństwa. Zatem usłyszana ewangelia przekonuje nas, że nie tylko my szukamy, ale także jesteśmy poszukiwani, ale nie listem gończym — jesteśmy poszukiwani miłością Boga.

Trzeba bez końca nam grzesznikom, sobie uświadamiać, że najważniejszy jest Bóg — Ojciec, który wciąż na tego, który „opuści Jego dom” oczekuje, który serdecznie obejmuje na powitanie, który zapomina o przeszłości, który na nowo powołuje do życia swego syna w miłości i radości. Girolamo Savonarola pisał: „Strach przed grzechem, jaki w sobie odkrywam, prowadzi mnie do rozpacz. Ale nadzieja twego miłosierdzia jest większa niż ma nędza. Przez to nie przestanę nigdy ufać i opiewać twę miłość”. Ostatnim słowem Boga jest przebaczenie, ostatnim jego gestem przygarniecie człowieka do siebie.

W logice ewangelicznej przebaczenie wcale nie jest uzależnione od skruchy i przyznania się do winy. To właśnie świadomość bycia kochanym i świadomość nieustannej gotowości do przebaczenia ze strony Boga „rozbraja” grzeszność człowieka. Miłosierdzie Boga pozostaje zawsze bezwarunkowe i uprzedzające. Tylko taka świadomość pozwala nam na prawdziwą skruchę.

Komitet Gościnności pragnie wyrazić podziękowanie każdemu, kto w tak wspaniałomyślny sposób przyczynił się do zorganizowania przyjęcia z okazji oddania do użytku Parku Nazaretańskiego i wyremontowanego czwartego piętra w szkole. Ilość i różnorodność przyniesionych placków i kanapek była wprost zdumiewająca, tak że wielu z uczestników tej uroczystości chwaliło, jak wspaniale było wszystko.

Chcemy także podziękować wszystkim ochotnikom, którzy przygotowując to wydarzenie dało tak wiele cennego czasu. Wielu nie było członkami Komitetu Gościnności, ale pomagali, bo widzieli potrzebę pomocy. Usłyszeliśmy wiele komentarzy, którzy chwalili nie tylko jakość posiłków, ale także dobrą atmosferę u św. Stanisława. Wydarzenie było sukcesem tylko dlatego, że wielu było ochotników, którzy zaoferowali swoją pomoc – i z tego powodu Komitet Gościnności z serca dziękuje za taką wspaniałomyślność parafian.

Fr. Placyd was the official taste-tester at the pierogi pinching, and the pierogi passed his stringent standards. "One down, 8,999 to go!"

Even if you could not make it for the pierogi pinching, please try to schedule some kitchen time during the festival. The kitchen is the heart of the home during the festival — hard and tiring work, but worth it! Contact Sharon Kozak, festival volunteer coordinator, at 330-467-8532.

SAINT HYACINTH

This Sunday, September 19, is the one-year anniversary of the closing of Saint Hyacinth Parish, our long-time neighbors to the north. As we share in their sadness, so also are we grateful for those who have made Saint Stanislaus their parish home. We have recently received bids for repainting and installing the statue of St. Hyacinth into our sanctuary, details will follow soon.

THANK YOU! THANK YOU THANK YOU!!!!!!

The Hospitality Committee would like to thank everyone who gave so generously to make the reception after the dedication of Nazareth Park and blessing of the 4th floor a success. The amount and variety of sandwiches and bakery donated by the parishioners was amazing, and many of the visitors commented on how delicious everything was. We also want to thank those who volunteered so much of their time to help with set-up, service and clean up. Many were not committee members but saw something that needed to be done and did it. We got a lot of feedback from visitors who enjoyed not only the food but also the spirit of community they felt while here at St. Stan's. The event was a success because of everyone who helped - whether by providing food or service - and the Hospitality Committee truly appreciates the generosity of the parishioners.

GOT PIEROGI?

The pierogoi team, led by parishioners Grace Hryniewicz and Maria Ciborowska, had quite a job to reach their goal of 9,000!! Many thanks to them and their crew for preparing some of the most sought-after treats of the festival! Br. Patryk was the dough-roller and the cleanup guy. A seminarian needs the learn, not all the jobs in ministry are glamorous.

GRATEFUL E-MAIL FROM SISTER CELESTE...

Hi Fr. Mike, Just want to thank you again for the wonderful and family-like celebration yesterday. From the beginning to the moment of departure - a holy joy was experienced by me. It was simple, elegant and joyful.

Want to thank all who made this possible from the parishioners and non-parishioners, to the ones who cleaned the floors, washed dishes, prepared and baked the 90 trays of cookies and finger foods, music, displays, microphone set-ups, and yes, those who did the clean-up afterwards. Your parish is indeed a family and I am proud that at the time I spent at SAINTS, I may have been a little part of making it so [this is our charism].

My best moment that I will cherish as long as I live: the music honor at the Consecration. I never experienced this and the tears just rolled down my face and I shook at the Awesome presence of our God... the music enhanced this - telling us that Here Is YOUR GOD ... look at Him... embrace HIM.

Thanks for this day and all that went into it. I know that it was a lot of work! Seems everything was thought of... food on every floor... that was work!! Blessings on all of the people involved. Tell them of our prayers for them. Meeting the people and those I remember or remember me was a treat. I never stopped praying for St Stan's and will continue for the wonderful people there and their Shepherd.... you.

Again, Fr. Mike, deepest thank you and God bless you and your parishioners always in ALL WAYS.

FOR YOUR FALL GARDENING NEEDS, REMEMBER...

KURTZ CARES! Get your Fall gardening supplies at any Kurtz Brothers location, 10% of the purchases will be donated to St. Stan's Garden Club. Mention St. Stan's to the salesperson or give our Kurtz Cares account number 5001086.

300! That was the enrollment dream for our school, and when we reached it, the teachers were asked to write a short response to: Why I am glad to be a part of the Saint Stanislaus Community. Here is the response from Amanda Jaronowski, “Mrs. J,” the music teacher: “I am so excited to be here because the students in this community are excited about music and have great energy. The staff (Fr. Michael and Mrs. Martin) is SO supportive, and that makes me want to be here every day! ☺
