III. LOSS OF BIODIVERSITY

32. The earth's resources are also being plundered because of short-sighted approaches to the economy, commerce and production. The loss of forests and woodlands entails the loss of species which may constitute extremely important resources in the future, not only for food but also for curing disease and other uses. Different species contain genes which could be key resources in years ahead for meeting human needs and regulating environmental problems.

33. It is not enough, however, to think of different species merely as potential "resources" to be exploited, while overlooking the fact that they have value in themselves. Each year sees the disappearance of thousands of plant and animal species which we will never know, which our children will never see, because they have been lost for ever. The great majority become extinct for reasons related to human activity. Because of us, thousands of species will no longer give glory to God by their very existence, nor convey their message to us. We have no such right.

34. It may well disturb us to learn of the extinction of mammals or birds, since they are more visible. But the good functioning of ecosystems also requires fungi, algae, worms, insects, reptiles and an innumerable variety of microorganisms. Some less numerous species, although generally unseen, nonetheless play a critical role in maintaining the equilibrium of a particular place. Human beings must intervene when a geosystem reaches a critical state. But nowadays, such intervention in nature has become more and more frequent. As a consequence, serious problems arise, leading to further interventions; human activity becomes ubiquitous, with all the risks which this entails. Often a vicious circle results, as human intervention to resolve a problem further aggravates the situation. For example, many birds and insects which disappear due to synthetic agrottoxins are helpful for agriculture: their disappearance will have to be compensated for by yet other techniques which may well prove harmful. We must be grateful for the praiseworthy efforts being made by scientists and engineers dedicated to finding solutions to man-made problems. But a sober look at our world shows that the degree of human intervention, often in the service of business interests and consumerism, is actually making our earth less rich and beautiful, ever more limited and grey, even as technological advances and consumer goods continue to abound limitlessly. We seem to think that we can substitute an irreplaceable and irretrievable beauty with something which we have created ourselves.

35. In assessing the environmental impact of any project, concern is usually shown for its effects on soil, water and air, yet few careful studies are made of its impact on biodiversity, as if the loss of species or animals and plant groups were of little importance. Highways, new plantations, the fencing-off of certain areas, the damming of water sources, and similar developments, crowd out natural habitats and, at times, break them up in such a way that animal populations can no longer migrate or roam freely. As a result, some species face extinction. Alternatives exist which at least lessen the impact of these projects, like the creation of biological corridors, but few countries demonstrate such concern and foresight. Frequently, when certain species are exploited commercially, little attention is paid to studying their reproductive patterns in order to prevent their depletion and the consequent imbalance of the ecosystem.

JEŚLI BOG NIE ISTNIEJE ...

Pewien mężczyzna poszedł, jak co miesiąc, do fryzjera. Zaczęli rozmawiać o różnych sprawach. Ni z tego, ni z owego, wywiązała się rozmowa o Bogu.

Fryzjer powiedział:

- Wie pan, ja nie wierzę, że Bóg istnieje.
- Dlaczego pan tak uważa? - zapytał klient.
- Cóż, to bardzo proste. Wystarczy tylko wyjść na ulicę, żeby się przekonać, że Bóg nie istnieje. Gdyby Bóg istniał, myśli pan, że istniałoby tyle osób chorych? Istniałoby opuszczone dzieci? Gdyby istniał Bóg, nie byłoby bólu, nie byłoby cierpienia... Po prostu nie mogę sobie wyobrazić Boga, który na to wszystko pozwala. Klient pomyślał chwilę, chciał coś powiedzieć, ale zrezygnował. Nie chciał wywoływać niepotrzebnej dyskusji. Gdy fryzjer skończył, klient zapłacił i wyszedł. I w tym momencie zobaczył na ulicy człowieka z długą zaniedbaną brodą i włosami. Wyglądało na to, że już od dłuższego czasu jego włosy i broda nie widziały fryzjera. Był zaniedbany i brudny.

Wtedy klient wrócił i powiedział:

- Wie pan co? Fryzjerzy nie istnieją!
- Bardzo śmieszne! Jak to nie istnieją? - zapytał fryzjer - Ja jestem jednym z nich!
- Nie - odparł klient - Fryzjerzy nie istnieją, bo gdyby istnieli, nie byłoby ludzi z długimi włosami i brodą, jak ten człowiek na ulicy.
- A nie, fryzjerzy istnieją, to tylko ludzie nie poszukują nas z własnej woli.
- No właśnie - powiedział klient. - Dokładnie tak. Bóg istnieje, to tylko ludzie Go nie szukają i robią to z własnej woli, dlatego jest tyle cierpienia i bólu na świecie.

Bóg nie obiecywał dni bez bólu, radości, bez cierpienia, słońca bez deszczu. Obiecał siły na każdy dzień, pociechę wśród łez i światło na drodze...
