Madonna and Child Part I

Throughout the world there are numerous icons, images and paintings which try to capture the unique relationship of the Mother of God together with her young Son. To Poles the ultimate representative of this idea is the icon referred to as Our Lady of Częstochowa (feastday, August 26). To those familiar with our Shrine, that particular expression holds a prominent place of honor in the Eastern transept of the church where we also venerate the relics of Stanislaus, John Paul II, Francis, Clare and Anthony. There is however one more area of the church which highlights this same icon of Mary and Jesus, i.e., the second window from the back of the church on the eastern side of the nave. This window pictures four specific events connected with the traditional and/or historical life of that famous icon.

The first 'idea' in the window is found in the middle and upper left hand side of the window. There we see, according to tradition, St. Luke writing the icon on the tabletop from the home of the Holy Family in Nazareth while Mary and Jesus pose.

Moving to the right we see Duke Ladislaus of Opole, palatine of Ruthenia, entrusting the care of the icon to the Pauline monks on August 31, 1384, to be enshrined in their monastery at Jasna Góra (the bright mountain). The name 'Częstochowa' has its roots in the fact that the terrain surrounding the monastery is rather hilly, thus as one approaches the 'bright mountain' one often loses sight of it precisely because the hills are blocking its view, only to reappear again after reaching the summit of the hill, disappearing again as one descends.

THE BIG FISH

Last week our Lil Bros Club returned from the annual Franciscan Youth Retreat and fishing trip in northern Wisconsin. We returned with the same number of kids we left with, so I guess it was a success. We had two wonderful chaperones, Tom Polomsky and Tom Sklodowski (who was given the nickname “Tom-Tom” by the boys), and if the week with our kids doesn't cause them to join another parish, then we can say it was a success all around!

Not to brag too much, but this year I caught the biggest fish of the week. This is quite an accomplishment, because a few years ago I hadn't caught a single fish. Sometimes progress comes in small increments, and as a surprise. But this little sign of improvement led me to look for similar signs among the young people on retreat with us.

The oldest member of the group looked back wistfully to when he used to be the youngest. Now he's going to college, and feeling not so much like a kid anymore. The youngest one in the group had to figure out that boyhood camaraderie can look and feel an awful lot like torment — but it is the crazy way that guys show you are part of the group. Another one is seen sneaking away from the group and into the chapel for a moment of quiet prayer. Some of us shed salty tears at the cemetery in Pulaski, remembering Fr. Alcuin who baptized one of the kids years ago, Fr. Julian who relished the assistance of altar servers while walking up the altar steps, Fr. John Liczner who was a peaceful presence to us in our time of deep grief, and Fr. William, who should have been in Cleveland to welcome us home.

A friar from our Franciscan province remarked once, “He who can fish, can pray.” There is a remarkable similarity between fishing and praying. Many fishermen will tell you that the point of fishing is not so much to get lots of fish, but simply to be out there fishing. So also with prayer. The point is not so much getting the answer we want, it is simply enough to be with the Lord in prayer.

Likewise, when fishing, you have to accept that there is a fish in the water in the first place — even though you can't see it. So also with prayer, we believe in faith that there is indeed a God there, even though we can't see him. Also, we try to lure the fish on to the hook, but it will only come to the lures it finds attractive — not the ones we think look interesting. So also in prayer, God responds on his own terms, not on ours. When we are fishing, just one strong nibble on the line can keep us out there for another hour of waiting. So also in prayer, a brief moment of feeling the presence of God can keep us sitting quietly for more.

In the end, prayer and fishing are both about patiently waiting for something to happen, which is beyond our control to force, but which we entirely hope will occur. Fishing is a sustained act of hope. Not desperation, but hope that there is even the slightest possibility that what we desire might actually occur.

Fr. Michael

EUCHARYSTIA OFIARA

Co to znaczy, że eucharystia jest ofiarą? Kto ją składa? Jaki jest dar ofiarny? Na te pytania częściowo odpowiada prefacja o Najświętszej Eucharystii: “Chrystus” jako pierwszy i wieczny Kapłan, ustanawiając obrzęd wiekistej ofiary, pierwszy się Tobie oddał w zbawczej ofierze i nam polecił ją składać na swoją pamiętkę”. Jezus Chrystus złożył swemu Ojcu jedną jedyne ofiarę: siebie samego. Eucharystię nazywamy ofiarą, gdyż jest uobecnieniem jędnę jędnę doskonałej ofiary złożonej przez Chrystusa na krzyżu.

Eucharystia jest także ofiarą Kościoła. Po przeistoczeniu kapłan wypowiada słowa: “składamy Ci wśród dziękczynnych modłów tę żywą i świętą Ofiarę (...). przyjmij Ofiarę, przez którą nas pojednałeś ze sobą.” Jednocześnie z Chrystusem w Jego oddaniu się Ojcu składamy Bogu jedyny drogocenny dar dany nam przez Ojca Syn staje się z kolei naszym darem dla Ojca.

Eucharystia uczta. W Ewangelii wg. św. Jana napotykamy na takie słowa: “Jeśli nie będziecie spożywali Ciała Syna Człowieczego i nie będziecie pili Krwi Jego, nie będziecie mieli życia w sobie” (J6,53). W starożytności ofiara zawsze łączyła się z uczta. Każdy kto brał udział w ofierze, brał również udział w uczcie. Tak też było podczas zgromadzeń eucharystycznych u pierwszych chrześcijan, zaś wykluczenie kogoś z udziału w Komunii św. było największą karą. W eucharystii nie tylko dziękujemy Chrystusowi za to, że stał się dla nas pokarmem. Ci, którzy świadomie z lekceważeniem nie przyjmują Ciała, w rzeczywistości nie wierzą w zbawczą moc Jego ofiary. Św. Justyn tak pisał na ten temat: “Pokarm ten zwie się u nas Eucharystią i nikt w nim brać udziału nie może, tylko ten, który wierzy w to, czego nauczamy, kto wziął kąpiel na odpuszczenie grzechów i na odrodzenie i tak żyje jak Chrystus nam to przykazał” (Apologia I,66).

Św. Paweł przypomina w I Kor. (11,23), że Jezus ustanowił eucharystię tej nocy, której był wydany, zdradzony. Służy to podkreśleniu, iż w tym samym czasie, kiedy Jezus w pełni świadomie i dobrowolnie daje największy dar, samego siebie w tym samym czasie dokonuje się odrzucenie tego daru. Z pamiętajmy, że noc ustanowienia Eucharystii jest równocześnie i nocą zdrady, kiedy to górę wzięły, ludzka słabość i przewrotność. Odpowiedzią Jezusa jest najwyższa miłość, której wyrazem jest dar z samego siebie. A wszystko to tak mocno dotyka naszej terażniejszości. Przecież dar miłości Jezusa zawarty w Eucharystii bywa odrzucany, lekceważony, zdradzany.

Paweł Apostoł wspomina również o tych, którzy niegodnie spożywają Ciało Krew Chrystusa. Można o nich powiedzieć używając słów listu do Hebrajczyków (6,6), że “krzyżują oni w sobie syna Bżego”. Idąc tokiem myśli św. Pawła można powiedzieć, że ten spożywa niegodnie Ciało Pańskie, kto podczas Eucharystii nie jest przeniknięty dokonującą się rzeczywistością, kto zachowuje się tak, jakby Chrystus nie ofiarował się w tym momencie i jakby nie stał się obecny w Eucharystii. Przyjęciu zatem Ciała Pańskiego winno towarzyszyć równoczesne przejęcie i przyjęcie postawy miłości i służby, czyli tych postaw, z jakimi Chrystus ofiarowuje się za nas.
