The new schedules for the first quarter of 2008 are available. Please pick them up in the sacristy after Mass.

WORDS

...They can comfort or hurt. They can start wars or make peace. They can make your day or ruin your day. They can conjure up fond memories or try to wrap them neatly into history. They can inspire or bore. They can enlighten or mislead. Words do all that and more.

In our 'history' God spoke. The universe flowed from His words. Light and life and breath were His words. Then God said 'Jesus' and the Word was made flesh. That one Word was all 'Love' had to say. The action was the expression of His essence. Love had to live and breathe and consummate the act with the lover He created. Had the apple never been removed from the tree and put to the lips of creation the Word would still have had to be given life, spoken, breathed into the object of God's affection.

Today we turn to each other and say words which bring our own beings to life. Every "Merry Christmas" defines our life. Every "Hi! How are you?" defines our life. Every "God bless you!" defines our life. Our words show to others who we are just as creation, and, ultimately, Jesus, showed us Who God is, was and will be. If our words make even one person happy, we have not betrayed our heart. If our words bring warmth to the lonely, the lame, the homebound, the sick, the poor, the imprisoned, the least of our brothers and sisters, then the Word still speaks.

His Word and our words are an intercourse in time and space which God initiated at creation and which will be silenced in consummation on the last day. On that day all words will be heard as if for the first time upon God's ear, falling off the pages of memory, determining our fate. Every "Merry Christmas" and "I love you" and "Thank You" will sound along with the last trumpet as the Creator welcomes the beloved into an eternal embrace

What's great about this is that God wants all of us as His lovers. Perhaps that is why time carries us along to give us so many opportunities to say 'yes' to His advances. He gives us soooooo many chances! What a mad lover! He won't give up! The Word He spoke is a persistent listener and forgiver, a patient and wise friend.

This holy holiday we celebrate the Word which entered our history at the first 'Ave Maria' to begin the process of liberation for those who ate of the tree in Eden in pre-history as well as in 2007. In fact, each time we recite the 'Hail Mary' and say 'Merry Christmas' we commemorate that great event: God's physical intervention into our lives in the person of Jesus. Over the next few days we will open our mouths and say "Merry Christmas" to friends near and far, living and dead, in hope and in faith and in love.

To everyone who weekly reads my words, I say "Merry Christmas" and may the Word bless you and touch your words and hearts throughout the new year and always!

David Krakowski

"Do not be afraid to take Mary into your home."

"This is how the birth of Jesus Christ came about. When his mother Mary was betrothed to Joseph, but before they lived together, she was found with child through the Holy Spirit." These are the words taken from Mathew's Gospel for 4th Sunday in Advent.

After the prophet Isaiah from whose book we have heard many texts during the Advent time, after John Baptist whose task was to prepare the way for the Lord, the words of the liturgy direct our attention on the Mother of Jesus, Mary, and to her faithful husband, Joseph. We don't have any words in the Gospel about him. He is, so to speak, in the shade of his Wife. Yet, Providence intended for him the big mission to be accomplished. He fulfilled this task quietly, but faithfully until the end.

We have two descriptions of Jesus' birth: in the Gospel according to Luke and in the Gospel according to Matthew. They have different perspectives. The first one shows it from Mary's point of view. The second one gives Joseph's perspective. These texts show to us the greatness of both virginal spouses. However, we have to read the sacred texts very carefully, or rather meditate on them over and over again. In this way, we enter into the spirit of these writings, because many things there were outlined only gently; we have there only allusions or even we must read "between lines."

Giving consent to Christ's motherhood, Mary not only exposes herself to "shame," but She even imperils herself to be stoned because of an accusation of fornication. Saying "May it be done to me according to your word," she shows her great trust in God; she lays her life in God's hands. She trusts also in Joseph, to whom she was "betrothed." By that time, they don't live together, but according to the law she is considered as the Carpenter's spouse. In case a groom dies during that time, his bride is considered as a widow. If a bride cheats in that time on her fiancé, it would be considered as an act of fornication, and she was to be stoned. The groom is to throw the first stone. The Law itself tells it!

Now, we can understand a little better the Joseph's decision to "divorce Mary quietly." On one hand, he doesn't want to harm his Beloved One. On the other hand, he is a "righteous man," this means, faithfully fulfilling the Law. Letting Mary go was for Joseph the best solution in this difficult conflict.

The words he hears in the dream: "Joseph, son of David, do not be afraid to take Mary your wife into your home. For it is through the Holy Spirit that this child has been conceived in her" bring to him a relief. He doesn't say any word; we hear only that immediately after he got up, he accomplishes what he was told—he takes Mary to his home. St. Joseph is not a man of words; he is a man of deeds—without delay fulfils what he was told by God's messenger. He is obedient to God and his word. Because of that, the Holy Scripture says of him "a righteous man."

"Nie bój się
wziąć do siebie Maryi"

Z narodzeniem Jezusa Chrystusa było tak. Po zaślubinach Matki Jego, Maryi, z Józefem, w pierw nim zamieszkali razem, znalazła się brzemienna za sprawą Ducha Świętego. Te słowa wzięte z Ewangelii według św. Mateusza slyszymy w czwartą niedzielę Adwentu.

Po proroku Izajaszu, z którego księgi slyszyliśmy wiele tekstów w czasie Adwentu, po Janie Chrzcicielu, którego zadaniem bezpośrednio przygotowanie drogi Panu, liturgia dzisiejszej niedzieli zwraca naszą uwagę na Matkę Jezusa – Maryję i Józefa. W Ewangelii nie slyszymy ani jednego jego słowa. Znajduje się on niejako w cieniu swej Malzonki. A jednak Opatrzność wyznaczyła mu wielką rolę do spełnienia. To zadanie wypełnił on w cichoci, ale wiernie do końca.

Mamy dwa opisy narodzenia Jezusa: w Ewangelii według św. Łukasza i w Ewangelii według św. Mateusza. Ukazują one różnie perspektywy. Pierwsza napisana jest z punktu widzenia Matki Bożej; druga napisana jest z perspektywy Opiekuna Zbawiciela. Te teksty ukazują nam wielkość dziewiczych malzonków – Maryi i Józefa. Aby jednak te wielkość zobaczyć, musimy bardzo starannie wyczytać się w święte teksty, a raczej medytować je wciąż na nowo. W ten sposób powoli wejdzmy w ducha tych świętych tekstów, bowiem wiele rzeczy zostało tam tylko delikatnie zarysowanych; mamy tylko aluzje czy nawet musimy czytać "między wierszami".

Maryja zgadzając się zostać Matką Jezusa naraza się nie tylko na "zniesławienie", jak to zaznacza Mateusz, ale nawet na ukamienowanie, z powodu oskarżenia o cudzołóstwo. Maryja mówiąc "Niech mi stanie według słowa Twego" okazuje wielkie zaufanie Bogu; w tych słowach wyraża swoje powierzenie swego życia w Boże ręce. Jest to także zaufanie względem św. Józefa, z którym jest zaręczona. Nie mieszkali jeszcze razem, ale już według Prawa była uważana za malzonkę Ciesli. Gdy naręczony umierał w czasie narzeczeństwa, naręczona była uważana za wdowę po nim. Gdy naręczona została przylapana na cudzołóstwie, była ona kamienowana, a jej naręczony był tym, który pierwszy rzucał kamień. Był to nakaz Prawa!

Teraz możemy zrozumieć trochę lepiej decyzję Józefa, który potajemnie chciał oddalić Maryję. Z jednej strony nie chciał podnieść ręki na Te, która kochał, a z drugiej strony był człowiekiem sprawiedliwym, tzn. wiernie wypełniającym Prawo. Potajemne oddalenie Maryi było najlepszym w jego oczach rozwiązaniem bardzo trudnego konfliktu.

Słowa, który usłyszał we śnie: Józefie, synu Dawida, nie bój się wziąć do siebie Maryi, twej Malzonki; albowiem z Ducha Świętego jest to, co się w Niej poczęło przynosi mu ulgę. Józef nie mówi ani słowa; slyszymy tylko, że zaraz po przebudzeniu się ze snu wykonał polecenie Bożego wysłanca - wziął Maryję do siebie. Św. Józef nie jest człowiekiem słów, jest on człowiekiem czynu - bez zwłoki wypełniał to, do czego wzywał go Pan Bóg. Dlatego Pismo św. mówi o nim, nazywa go "człowiekiem sprawiedliwym".

ST. STAN'S HISTORICAL FACT by Rob Jagelewski.

The crusade to establish the 40 hour work week had some of its beginnings in our neighborhood and our Parish. The Newburgh Rolling Steel Mill ownership changed and wages were cut. The Polish workers, who earlier attained work at the mill when the Irish, Welsh, and Bohemian workers went on strike soon faced the same situation in 1885. Now the Poles of Warszawa and of St. Stanislaus went on strike. This was a violent strike. The striking workers marched on downtown and demanded government intervention. A riot ensued. Cleveland Mayor George Gardner ordered Rolling Mill President, William Chisholm to restore wages. Another demand for a forty hour work week was not met. The workers were engaged in twelve hour shifts. The Mayor appealed to St. Stanislaus Pastor, Father Anton Kolaszewski to calm down his parishioners. The strike was settled. The strike leaders were blacklisted. The forty hour work week did not come into effect until the Wagner Act was passed by Congress in 1936.
